WHY INVEST IN SOUTH AFRICA.

South Africa is an attractive market for investors. who wish to gain exposure to African growth but wish to avoid the pitfalls of less mature markets in terms of liquidity, trading costs, limited data, and transparency. African GDP is forecast to reach $2.6 trillion by 2020, up from roughly $1.6 trillion today. South Africa is well positioned to play an integral part in this growth, due to its mature, competitive industries and proximity to African markets. Additionally, South Africa will benefit from the growth of its biggest export market: China. As such South Africa – uniquely positioned at the confluence of the “Africa” and “BRICS” themes – offers a compelling case for investors with a long-term horizon and the patience to see these opportunities materialize.

REASON-1 HOT EMERGING MARKET:

Rapidly growing middle class, affluent consumer base, excellent returns on investment.

REASON-2 MOST DIVERSIFIED ECONOMY IN AFRICA:

South Africa (SA) has the most industrialized economy in Africa. It is the region's principal manufacturing hub and a leading services destination.

REASON-3 LARGEST PRESENCE OF MULTINATIONALS ON THE AFRICAN CONTINENT:

SA is the location of choice of multinationals in Africa. Global corporates reap the benefits of doing business in SA, which has a supportive and growing ecosystem as a hub for innovation, technology, and fintech.

REASON-4 FAVOURABLE ACCESS TO GLOBAL MARKETS:

The African Continental Free Trade Area will boost intra-African trade. To create a market of over one billion people and a combined gross domestic product (GDP) of USD2.2-trillion that will unlock industrial development. SA has several trade agreements in place as an export platform into global markets.

REASON-5 ABUNDANT NATURAL RESOURCES:

SA is endowed with an abundance of natural resources. It is the leading producer of platinum-group metals (PGMs) globally. Numerous listed mining companies operate in SA, which also has world-renowned underground mining expertise.

REASON-6 ADVANCED FINANCIAL SERVICES & BANKING SECTOR:

SA has a sophisticated banking sector with a major footprint in Africa. It is the continent's financial hub, with the JSE being Africa's largest stock exchange by market capitalization.

REASON-7 WORLD-CLASS INFRASTRUCTURE AND LOGISTICS:

A massive government investment programme in infrastructure development has been underway for several years. SA has the largest airports and logistics networks in Africa and is ranked number one in Africa in the World Bank's Logistics Performance Index.

REASON-9 BRICS MEMBERSHIP:

South Africa is the economic powerhouse of Africa and forms part of the BRICS group of countries with Brazil, Russia, India, and China.

REASON-10 THESE ARE BIG NAMES INVESTING IN SOUTH AFRICA:

MERCEDES BENZ	R5BILLION

CHINA COMMITS TO MORE INVESTMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Addressing the media during the briefing of Chinese President Xi Jinping's state visit held in Pretoria, President Cyril Ramaphosa announced China had committed to $14.7-billion in investments.

Other investments include a $10-billion investment from Chinese automaker Beijing Automotive Industry Company. (BAIC) which will go towards expanding its plant based in Coega, Port Elizabeth as well as the expansion of television maker Hisense's plant.

2018 marks the 20th anniversary of diplomatic relations between South Africa and China. China is South Africa's biggest trading partner, with bilateral trade growing 11.7% to USD 39.17bn in 2017 – just under a third of total China-Africa trade. Chinese foreign direct investment (FDI) into South Africa reached USD 15.2bn in 2017, or 19% of total FDI, making the country the second-largest recipient of Chinese FDI in sub-Saharan Africa after Nigeria. One of the most significant Chinese investments in South Africa was the Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (ICBC)'s acquisition of a 20% stake in Standard Bank for USD 5.5bn in 2007. ICBC was attracted both by South Africa's status as the only G20 member state and its developing economy with a significant middle-income consumer segment.

SOUTH AFRICA'S EXCHANGE CONTROLS

The South African Reserve Bank administers exchange controls (SARB)

South Africa does not impose exchange controls over non-residents, only over residents and transactions between residents and non-residents.

In principle, there are no restrictions on foreign nationals acquiring companies/businesses in SA. There is also no approval needed for the acquisition of shares or the introduction of capital.

Acceptance of foreign loans by SA residents or subsidiary or branch of a foreign company requires prior approval. Repayment of foreign loans by SA residents also requires approval.

Repatriation of funds. There are no restrictions on repatriation of funds (Dividends; Interest; Equity investments; Royalties where prior approval was received)

WHY INVEST IN AUTO PARTS?

The auto parts retail industry enjoys resilience even during times of economic downturn. Therefore, starting an auto parts business can be a highly profitable venture. According to a May 2017 article on the website Bloomberg BusinessWeek; "We're driving our cars longer"

Sales of used motor vehicles have increased faster than those of new motor vehicles. On average between 2007 and 2017, sales of used vehicles increased by 5,8% per year compared with 3,5% recorded for new motor vehicle sales. Over the same time sales of motor vehicle parts and accessories increased faster than sales of both new and used motor vehicles. The faster growth in sales of parts and accessories could be linked to the relative increase in sales of used motor vehicles. Thus, instead of buying new vehicles, consumers could have opted to purchase used motor vehicles, increasing sales of parts and accessories. (Department of trade and industry bulletin)

The motor trade industry is one of the important sectors in the South African economy. The industry is diverse and covers a wide range of activities. This includes wholesale of motor vehicles; retail sales of motor vehicles; maintenance and repair of motor vehicles; sales of new motor vehicle parts and accessories; sales of used motor vehicle parts and accessories; sales, maintenance and repair of motorcycles and related accessories authorised and independent service, repair operators and equipment and part suppliers. In 2017, the motor trade industry's contribution to the gross domestic product (GDP) stood at 2,2%, up from 1,9% in 2006. The motor trade industry is also an employer of note, accounting for about 3,4% of total formal employment in 2015, which is equivalent to 345 716 jobs (Department of trade and industry)

South Africa does not have an adequate public transport system and as such every household travels in minibuses or in their private vehicles. Due to this fact, there is a huge population of vehicles in South Africa. Almost 40 000 vehicles get added to South African roads every month. Currently, there are approximately 15 million registered vehicles in South Africa.

There are more than 200 000 minibusses on South African road transporting people and generating more than R90 billion. (SANTACO)

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING ABOUT SOUTH AFRICA

“South Africa will be the big emerging market story of 2018” –
Goldman Sachs

Goldman Sachs is the world’s third-biggest investment bank. So they know a thing or two when it comes to picking out a country with massive ‘emerging market’ potential. And right now, they’re championing South Africa.

Your eyes do not deceive you. As reported by Fin24, South Africa is now showing the signs of bouncing back from a bruising 2017. We experienced everything from recessions to junk statuses to take a firm grip on the country's economy.

Why is South Africa the “big emerging market story”?

There’s no doubt that the ANC Elective Conference in December 2017 has had a huge influence on the Goldman Sachs decision. Cyril Ramaphosa has always been seen as the ‘business-friendly’ candidate for leadership. And in his first month as ANC President, Ramaphosa has already shown plenty of hubris in declaring his exact intentions during his presidency. Just the mere suggestion of Jacob Zuma leaving his role as Head of State has strengthened the rand significantly.

Our currency’s durability has been something to marvel at; trading at almost R15 to the dollar in October, Goldman Sachs envisions that we will enter 2019 at R11.50 to the dollar instead.

How has Goldman Sachs decided on a successful South Africa?

With interest rates reportedly lowering, it seems like Cyril Ramaphosa is going to make good on his promise of opening South Africa up to investors. But South Africa, and certainly the new ANC regime, could benefit from Jacob Zuma’s ineptitude.

As discussed by Tim Cohen (Editor of Business Day), he says this country has a vast ‘catch up potential’. Essentially, the economy will grow because it has such a low bar set from the previous annum.

Forward-looking scenarios for the Ramaphosa presidency (2018–2022) PWC Economists

Economic growth and investment in South Africa are set to rebound following several years of economic and political decline. The country remains a promising investment destination with a bright future and retained many strong fundamentals and positive factors for investment. The country is certainly in a better place now for investment than ever before.

These are some of the highlights from a report issued by PwC economist Christie Viljoen today. Our economists see a 75% probability of improved economic growth in South Africa over the next five years under the leadership of President Cyril Ramaphosa, compared to the preceding years.

In the report titled “Investment decisions: Why South Africa, and why now? Forward-looking scenarios for the Ramaphosa presidency (2018–2022)”,

An assessment of the game-changer event follows this. The election of Cyril Ramaphosa as president of the ANC – and the positive changes enacted within the first 40 days after this election. "The wheels of change are moving now and they are going to start speeding up," commented President Ramaphosa 24 January 2018.

Within this context, PwC considers the possible future scenarios for South Africa over a five-year horizon (towards 2022). The five scenarios are pathways to different potential future states by 2020 under the guidance of President Ramaphosa as ANC and national president, as well as a significantly revamped cabinet. "The scenarios enable the reader to look backward from 2022 at the potential pathways that South Africa followed in the preceding five years," Viljoen adds.

From a quantitative perspective, the scenarios provide projections for economic growth and the rand exchange rate. The outlook for GDP growth in 2018 is still quite opaque due to the uncertainties about how quickly President Ramaphosa can implement his reforms, comments Viljoen.

The 'baseline' scenario – entitled #Ramaprogress – sees more success in job-creating growth based on notable reforms under the president's New Deal agenda. This translates into real economic growth rising to 2% in 2020 and 3% by 2022. As fiscal dynamics improve, no further downgrades are seen in the sovereign's credit ratings. Meanwhile, the ANC improves its performance in the 2019 national elections and ends a recent decline in support. The 'upside' and 'best-case' scenarios see even greater reform success that accelerates economic growth even further. Overall, PwC sees a 75% probability of improved economic and political outcomes over the next five years, compared to the preceding several years.

These scenarios include different projections for economic growth and the exchange rate and will have varying implications for different industries and investment decisions.

Africa's largest stock exchange - FORBES

South Africa is a middle-income emerging market with an abundant supply of natural resources. Well-developed financial, legal, communications, energy, and transport sectors; and a stock exchange that is Africa's largest and among the top 20 in the world. The country's modern infrastructure supports a relatively efficient distribution of goods to major urban centers throughout the region. Eskom, the state-run power company, is building three new power stations and is installing new power demand management programs to improve power grid reliability. South Africa's economic policy has focused on controlling inflation while empowering a broader economic base.

Toyota South Africa Motors CEO explains their continued investment into South Africa

South Africa's vehicle market remains the biggest in Africa, accounting for 37% of new vehicle sales on the continent. Mr. Andrew Kirby, President, and CEO of Toyota South Africa Motors attribute this to the direction that the South African government has taken to make South Africa an attractive investment destination.

"The automotive sector is a bright spot for us in South Africa. Because we have long-term stability of the industrial policy from government, and over the years there has been consistent support from the motor industry," said Mr. Kirby.

Brand South Africa, in collaboration with Business Leadership SA – is running a six-week campaign to position South Africa as in an ideal investment destination. The CEOs' Know Campaign features CEO's from multinational corporations based in South Africa who share insights on the value of their respective organizations' investment into South Africa. Mr. Andrew Kirby, CEO, and President of Toyota South Africa is one of the CEO's featured.

"The benefit for us is that we get asset investment support, and we also get support through the Automotive Production and Development Programme. (APDP) Which incentivizes the production and exports of vehicles which allows us to offset a lot of the initial costs, and that makes us globally competitive," concluded Mr. Kirby.

NEW DAWN: Aspen opts for SA rather than Europe for new R1bn drugs factory

Aspen Pharm care Holdings is relocating the production of drugs for late-stage cancer, Parkinson's disease, and some auto-immune illnesses to South Africa from regions including Europe.

The move will help secure supply as the manufacturing of the pharmaceuticals is currently outsourced to other companies. Chief Executive Officer Stephen Saad told reporters in Port Elizabeth, where the 1 billion rands ($80 million) unit has been built. Aspen is Africa's biggest drugmaker with operations in more than 150 countries and is valued at about R121 billion.
